

Sarah

Your Pattern Recognition Report

Assessment Date: March 07, 2026

Reassessment Date: May 16, 2026

Growing the spine that was never allowed to form.

Your SPINE

Your SPINE reveals Power at 60% as your strongest vertebra and Embodiment at 29% as the vertebra asking for the most attention. This is your starting point, not your destination.

Sarah — SPINE Overview

Vertebra	Score	Stage	Description
S — Sovereignty	41%	Excavation	The capacity to own your own interior — desire, arousal, and erotic selfhood
P — Power	60%	Recognition/Practice	The capacity to act from your own authority — consent, communication, b

I — Identity	60%	Recognition/Practice	The capacity to know and define yourself — erotic identity, orientation, expression
N — Nourishment	39%	Excavation	The capacity to receive and enjoy — pleasure, receiving, and erotic play with
E — Embodiment	29%	Foundational	The capacity to live in and trust your body — somatic presence, sensory ra

Reading Your Shape

What your map is telling you

Your SPINE reveals a pattern we see often: Identity at 60% and Power at 60% are well-developed — you know who you are and you can communicate. But Sovereignty at 38% and Embodiment at 30% tell the deeper story. Body Trust at 24%, Pleasure Permission at 28%, Arousal-Shame Decoupling at 32% — these aren't deficits. They're the exact vertebrae where the system installed its deepest code.

There is a 30-point gap between your Identity and your Embodiment. You know things your body hasn't learned yet. The dissociation during intimacy isn't weakness — it's your nervous system solving a problem with the only tool it was given: leaving. The work is not to force staying. It's to make staying safe.

Your mind arrived somewhere your nervous system hasn't. 25-point gap between Forward/Between (60%) and Self (35%). The self you've built conceptually hasn't been invited into the body yet.

Your anchor: Erotic Identity Clarity (76%)

Identity is your anchor vertebra — Erotic Identity Clarity at 76% and Attachment Pattern Awareness at 72% are the strongest points on your SPINE. Four years of deconstruction and good therapy built something real here. When the Embodiment work feels overwhelming or the Sovereignty shame gets loud, this is where you return. You know who you are. Now we help the rest of your spine catch up.

What Was Done To You

Divine Surveillance

The system installed an observer who never left the room. Every thought, every impulse, every flicker of desire was visible to an omniscient presence keeping score. Your body learned there is no privacy — no unobserved moment, no feeling without moral consequence. Body Trust at 24% tells us that observer is still present, even now. The first work is not healing. It's finding out what it feels like to be alone in your own interior. Really alone. With no one watching.

Eschatological Urgency

Everything was a cosmic emergency. The stakes were always infinite, the judgment always imminent. Your nervous system learned that pleasure without punishment doesn't exist — that joy is borrowed time, that good things are followed by consequences. Intimate Levity at 36% tells us that emergency state is still running even after the doctrine left. The first work here is almost embarrassingly small: one minute of something genuinely pleasurable, with nothing required of it. No meaning. No significance. Just: this is good, and that is allowed.

This is the wound's architecture. Knowing how it was built is the beginning of knowing how to unbuild it — not with force, but with the specific tools the specific structure requires.

SPINE Domain Detail

S — Sovereignty — 41% (Excavation)

The capacity to own your own interior — desire, arousal, and erotic selfhood without external permission.

S — Sovereignty: 41% (Excavation)

Desire Ownership: 56% → 80% (gap: 24)

Arousal-Shame Decoupling: 32% → 70% (gap: 38)

Erotic Self-Acceptance: 35% → 75% (gap: 40)

P — Power — 60% (Recognition/Practice)

The capacity to act from your own authority — consent, communication, boundaries, and relational awareness.

P — Power: 60% (Recognition/Practice)

Consent Clarity: 64% → 80% (gap: 16)

Communication Capacity: 48% → 78% (gap: 30)

Boundary Sovereignty: 56% → 78% (gap: 22)

Attachment Pattern Awareness: 72% → 85% (gap: 13)

I — Identity — 60% (Recognition/Practice)

The capacity to know and define yourself — erotic identity, orientation, exploration, vision, and integration.

I — Identity: 60% (Recognition/Practice)

Erotic Identity Clarity: 76% → 88% (gap: 12)

Orientation & Preference Exploration: 44% → 75% (gap: 31)

Conscious Exploration Capacity: 52% → 78% (gap: 26)

Sexual Future Vision: 68% → 85% (gap: 17)

Integration Readiness: 60% → 80% (gap: 20)

N — Nourishment — 39% (Excavation)

The capacity to receive and enjoy — pleasure, receiving, and erotic play without earning it first.

N — Nourishment: 39% (Excavation)

Pleasure Permission: 28% → 75% (gap: 47)

Receiving Capacity: 60% → 80% (gap: 20)

Erotic Play Capacity: 28% → 70% (gap: 42)

E — Embodiment — 29% (Foundational)

The capacity to live in and trust your body — somatic presence, sensory range, spontaneity, levity, and curiosity.

E — Embodiment: 29% (Foundational)

Body Trust: 24% → 72% (gap: 48)

Sensory Range: 32% → 72% (gap: 40)

Spontaneous Presence: 24% → 68% (gap: 44)

Intimate Levity: 36% → 72% (gap: 36)

Embodied Curiosity: 30% → 70% (gap: 40)

Your Active Edges

Body Trust — 24% (Blank Page)

At 24%, your body is still more stranger than home. You were trained to override its signals, ignore its wisdom, distrust its responses. The work here is learning to notice what it tells you — without immediately overriding the message.

Spontaneous Presence — 24% (Blank Page)

At 24%, being fully in your body still triggers the old surveillance response. The work here is thirty seconds of actually being here — not planning, not monitoring. Just: here.

Pleasure Permission — 28% (Foundational)

At 28%, pleasure still requires justification. The system taught you that good things are earned, not received. The work here is sixty seconds of something genuinely pleasurable with nothing required of it.

Aliveness & Play

Aliveness at 30%. Let's be honest about what that means: the system shut down your capacity for uncomplicated pleasure. Play, spontaneity, lightness — these were luxuries at best, sins at worst. Your nervous system learned that joy is borrowed time. That good things are followed by consequences.

Spontaneous Presence at 24% is where the suppression is deepest. But here's the thing — this isn't the last cluster on the list because it's least important. It's here because it's what everything else is building toward. The capacity to enjoy being alive. Not to earn aliveness. Not to perform it. To actually feel it.

The first work here is almost embarrassingly small: one minute of something genuinely pleasurable, with nothing required of it. No meaning. No significance. Just: this is good, and that is allowed.

Your Wound Architecture

Sarah — HDR Wound Mechanisms

Pendulum Risk

Sarah — Pendulum Risk

The pendulum risk is low. Your Sovereignty and Embodiment domains have enough ground to hold the work without significant swing risk. This means your nervous system has the foundation to explore without the suppression-overcorrection cycle taking over. This doesn't mean the pendulum never moves — it means when it does, you have the internal ground to notice the movement and come back to center. That ground is real.

Your First Milestones

What the next shifts will feel like

Body Trust — toward First Threshold (30%)

Your body has been sending signals for years that you were trained to ignore. The first threshold is simply noticing one — a tension, a warmth, a contraction — and letting it stay. Not fixing it. Not interpreting it. Just: there it is.

Spontaneous Presence — toward First Threshold (25%)

Presence was dangerous — being fully here meant being fully visible to the omniscient observer. The first threshold is thirty seconds in your body. Actually here. Not planning, not monitoring, not performing. Just: here.

Pleasure Permission — toward First Threshold (30%)

The system taught you that pleasure was earned, dangerous, or selfish. The first threshold is sixty seconds of something genuinely pleasurable — warm water, a texture, a taste — without the tax. Without needing to deserve it first.

Erotic Play Capacity — toward First Threshold (30%)

The system made intimacy serious — high stakes, moral weight, cosmic consequences. The first threshold is the moment you realize that play belongs here too. That laughter and lightness aren't disrespectful — they're intimate.

Your Practice Prescription

The Daily Return Healing Weeks 1-4

Before the day gets its hands on you — just after waking, while your body is still warm and unguarded — find your own hands. Let them land somewhere without deciding first. Belly. Heart. Thigh. Ribs. Wherever they go is already information. Stay there. Not to fix anything. Not to feel anything in particular. Just to notice you're here. That this body — this specific, imperfect, lived-in body — is yours. It has always been yours. Nobody ever had the right to make you a stranger inside it.

Why this for you: Body Trust at 24% tells us your body doesn't yet feel like home. This practice rebuilds that foundation — one breath at a time, twice a day, until your body starts to expect you.

What you'll notice: At first, probably not much. Maybe numbness. Maybe the urge to skip it — that urge is information too. Around week two, something might shift: a small warmth, a breath that arrives a little easier. Your body beginning to expect you. That expectation is the beginning of coming home.

The Origin Question Resourcing Weeks any

When shame arrives — and it will — ask one question before you accept it: Where did I first learn this was shameful?

Why this for you: This practice supports your foundational work.

What you'll notice: Shame will start to have different textures. Some will feel old and borrowed. Some will feel current and yours. The sorting gets faster.

The Lighthouse Healing Weeks 3-8

Once a day — it takes two minutes — find one moment of genuine pleasure from the last 24 hours. Something small is perfect. The first sip of something warm. A song that moved through you. Sunlight on skin. The specific satisfaction of a door closing behind you at the end of the day. Write it down. Just the moment and what it felt like in your body. Not an analysis. Not gratitude. Just: this happened, and my body registered it as good.

Why this for you: Pleasure Permission at 28% means pleasure has been shut down or made dangerous. This practice teaches your nervous system that noticing good things is safe.

What you'll notice: Your pleasure vocabulary will expand. Things you didn't register as pleasurable will start to surface. The body begins to trust that pleasure is allowed.

Sarah, your body isn't broken. It's protecting you with the tools it was given. The dissociation, the shutdown, the shame spiral — these are your nervous system's best attempts at keeping you intact inside a system that made your body someone else's territory.

The work ahead is not dramatic. It's almost embarrassingly small. One minute of presence. One hand on your body. One breath that says: I live here. Do that enough times and the Embodiment vertebra starts to strengthen.

Your Identity already arrived. Now we help Sovereignty and Embodiment find their way home.

A reassessment is recommended at 10 weeks to track movement, celebrate progress, and adjust your practice prescription.